

Yaghava Munivar

PROPHET

Yaghava Munivar, an illiterate man and an unlikely sage, predicts that the world - which he calls Cosmic Hell - will experience unrest, calamity and catastrophe for 14 years from November 11, 1993.

There's no halo around him. He is just an ordinary man, if one goes by his appearance. But his acolytes consider him as an unconventional sage who has even predicted the time of his death and has tomb ready for his burial. His claims are sky-high and he loves to make mind-boggling challenges. His startling revelations have earned him a reputation in Tamil Nadu.

If at all Yaghava Munivar is something he is nonchalant. After talking to him, you come away with the impression that he loves controversies. He is not even literate in the conventional sense of the term. He says in his early years he was a beggar, a mendicant, a fakir, a shepherd a daily wager who worked in a petty shop in the distant Matunga. He claims he is the sage (Munivar) of all sages who can clear any doubt on esoteric subjects such as Vedanta. Today when there's talk about delinking religion from politics and vice versa, Yaghava Munivar who does not wear saffron clothes says that there was no religion 5000 years back! 'Asuras have created religion' is his pert and pithy comment.

On the subject of those who claim to be godmen Yaghava's views are clear and sharp. Since 1986 the self-described swamis and godmen are punished and persecuted in one way or another. The only genuine and true sage was Shankaracharya who was a gnani (learned). The others who claim to work up miracles are all fakes!

Munivar who chain-smokes and who started life as a rice merchant and who has a wife and two sons, does not shy away from making startling predictions, the sum total of which is that the world of ours which is steeped in bad deeds will have a tough time, "from 1986 onwards no one will ever hold on to power permanently anywhere on earth. Humanity will suffer from mutinies, famines, fires and hunger. Science can never bring about rains, neither can it command the winds or quench fire," he predicts.

"If the world is in bad shape today", he says with all seriousness, "it is because compassion and kindness are in short supply." According to him the world leaders in the

He is very emphatic when he predicts that Bharatiya Janata Party president L.K. Advani will never become the Prime Minister of India.
